T. Brown. Mr. Allen is son of the well known manager of the United States Mining company, and Mr. Brown is son of Mr. Brown of the firm of Brown, Terry & Woodruff, $25 Lincoln ave.

Music for Visitors—At the close of Music for Visitors—At the close of the regular services at the tabernacle, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Grant, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Cort, Duke Ricketts of Vancouver, and Mr. Schroeder of Chicago, were entertained by Professor John J. McClellan, who rendered several beautiful selections on the great organ. Among the numbers were Handel's old English air, and selections from "Tannhauser."

Rev. Goshen at Y. W. C. A.—Rev. E. I. Goshen addressed the Y. W. C. A.—Sunday afternoon, in which he said, "Your life should be governed by some high ideal. This is the means by which we can be made content with the routine of life. Let us all pattern our lives after the highests of all ideals—friendship, honor, righteousness and integrity." The meeting was the largest in the history of the association.

Funeral of J. B. Gordon—Funeral services were held at the Masonic temple Sunday afternoon over the body of John B. Gordon, who died in Los Angeles, Wednesday, the body reaching Salt Lake Saturday. The Reverend F. B. Short had chareg of the services, after which the body was interred in Mt. Olivet cemetery. The deceased was at one time prominent in Michigan politics. He was an Elk and a Mason.

was an Elk and a Mason.

Invention by Old Printer—M. M. Cowley, reputed to be the oldest printey in Salt Lake and for a number of years connected with The News, is an applicant at Washington for a patent upon a new method for the manufacture and laying of gypsum block for buildings. It is claimed by the inventor that more stability is secured in the modern concrete structure, the invention making it possible to interlock the blocks. It is asserted that the new process makes the walls constructed on the blocks practically of double strength.

Helpful Hints for Janitors—Ell A. Folland, superintendent of buildings and grounds of the board of education, called a meeting of the janitors of the school buildings. Saturday afternoon and gave them an address on the method of firing the heading plants in the school buildings. The meeting, which was the first of its kind ever held in the history of the schools, was attended by all the janitors. Mr. Folland made several suggestions which if carried out will establish a uniform system of handling the janitor work. Mr. Folland proposes to have the janitors wear a uniform during working hours and next year the superin-Helpful Hints for Janitors-Ell tendent of buildings will require an examination of janitors as to their knowledge of engineering.

Sounding Board a Success—A second and successful attempt was made Sunday, with a sounding board for the use of the preacher in St. Mary's cathedral, Heretofore the voice of the speakers could be heard only a short distance from the pulpit which has been shifted around from place to place in vain hopes of acoustical improvement; so the idea of a sounding the standard of the speakers could be speaked. The first attempt was a failure, but with the installation of a second and larger board, success has been achieved. There has been no trouble about hearing the singers, in fact the peculiar acoustic properties of the auditorium which unfavorably affected the speaking, intensify sounds from the organ loft, so that the voices are more like the heavy voices in grand opera. The music Sunday was very satisfactory.

STATE HAS WATER RIGHTS.

On an Indian Reservation Which Has

The waters on an Indian reservation which has not been opened to settlement are subject to appropriation by the state for any beneficial purpose, according to a supreme court decision handed down Saturday in the case of N. G. Sowards and J. L. Gibson, appellants, against N. J. Meagher, A. N. Jarvis, and the Dry Guleh Irrigation company. The opinion was written by Chief Justice D. N. Straup and conjured in by his associates, affirms the judgment of the Fourth district court, holding that the state engineer did not err in sustaining the protest of the defendants and approving their application. The lower court, it is held, did not err in sustaining the demurrer to the complaint. The waters on an Indian reservation cation. The lower court, it is held, did not err in sustaining the demurrer to the complaint.

Sowards and Gibson, on Aug. 28, 1905, filed their application with the state engineer to appropriate 300 second feet of the waters of the east fork of Lake Fork of the Green river in Wasatch county for the purpose of irrigating 33,680 acres of land. Meagher, Jarvis and the irrigation company protested against the application and the state engineer sustained their protest and also approved the filings on the zame water made by Meagher and Jarvis.

As soon as the engineer rejected their application, Sowards and Gibson filed suit to determine the rights to the water. It was contended by the plainffs that Jarvis filed his application on July 13, 1905, and that Meagher filed on Aug. 19 of the same year, the water and lands to be irrigated at the time of the filing of Jarvis and Meagher's applications were on an Indian reservation and it was declared could not be appropriated by the state. It was further alleged that Sowards and Gibson filed on the water rights first after the opening of the reservation for settlement.

DEATH OF MRS. MAXWELL.

Lydia Maxwell, wife of James H Maxwell and daughter of John and Frederika Langenbucher died at her residence, 3025 south Third East street, this morning. Deceased was born April II. 1883, and prior to her marriage last June, was an active worker in the Sixteenth ward where she was president of the Y. L. M. I. A. She was president of the Y. L. M. II. A. She was also one of the aides in the Salt Lake stake Sunday school union. She leaves her husband, father and mother and six sisters and three brothers. Two of her sisters are out of the state at present, one being in New York and the other in Colorado where she went recently on a mission. No definite arrangements have as yet been made as to the date of the funeral. residence, 3025 south Third East street who was accidentally struck and automobile, Thursday night, was held at the Eleventh ward night, was held at the Eleventh ward chapel Sunday afternoon. Bishop Robert Morris presided at the services, assisted by Hugh J. Cannon, president of the Liberty stake. The other speakers were Samuel Russell and Arnold Schulthess. Music was furnished by the German choir. The meeting was largely attended by Germans from all parts of the city, many of whom had known the deceased in her native land beyond the seas. She is survived by an only son, Gottleb Guggenberg of Garfield.

FUNERAL OF AUTO VICTIM,

MEETING AT LABOR HALL.

Beef, Butter and Egg Trusts Come in For Some Decidedly Emphatic Attention Saturday Night.

Saturday night to discuss the present high cost of living was attended by probably 100 enthusiastic citizens made up largely of the members of the various committees and sub-com-mittees that had been previously appointed and were to report progress

Frank B. Scott acted as chairman of the meeting. The principal speakers were the Rev. F. B. Short, E. J. Daughters, Rudolph Marti, and Mr.

A motion to abstain from the

A motion to abstain from the use of meat, butter and eggs for 30 days was not carried, but laid over until a more largely attended meeting. One committee reported that Mayor John S. Bransford had been conferred with and it had been decided to establish a farmers' market house at Pioner park square, the building to be erected at the expense of the city, and until that is accomplished some other temporary location will be arranged for where the farmer may market his produce direct to the consumer.

market his produce direct to the consumer.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Scott said the beef, butter and egg trusts have no conscience. Hogs today are bringing the farmer 9 cents a pound, but retailers have to pay 20 to 30 cents a pound to the middlemen. He said the creamerles are selling 14½ and 15 ounces for a pound of butter, clearing up 100 per cent profit. He strongly advocated the establishment of a great co-operative store.

METHODS IN ODGEN.

METHODS IN ODGEN

Rudolph Marti described the methods employed by the trust to drive out a co-operative butcher shop in Ogden. While the store was in operation the price of meats fell from 22 cents to 7 cents. Soon as the shop was closed the price jumped back to 22 cents.
The Rev. Short was not in favor of 22 cents.

The Rev. Short was not in favor of boycotting meat, as he thought especially the laboring man required the iron and the muscle ingredients of meat to be able to bear his burden. "If there could be opened up in this city a great market where the farmers may come and bring their produce and where we can go and buy ourselves and get a dozen eggs for a dozen, and 16 ounces for a pound of butter. I believe that would go far toward solving the problem."

E. J. Daughters said the Butchers and Grocers' association of this city is a gigantic trust. He said the committee will report next Wednesday the contemplated plan of opening a market place in this city where the farmers and people may trade direct with each other, and the plan for the establishing of a co-operative store. He claimed the statistics published by the Jenson Creamery company relative to the prices of butter in other cities were misrepresented.
